Note The GIMP is freely available for Microsoft Windows, macOS, and most Linux distributions. GIMP is available in both the software store and the built-in GIMP command-line interface. When you first open GIMP, it looks like any other graphics program—there's no editing workspace—but it's really a program that lets you edit images on the fly. You can duplicate images, adjust the brightness, and a host of other features without ever leaving the program.

Q: App Engine Python: Get connection.commit I am using the Google App Engine Python Remote API to insert data in my database via an admin panel. The issue is that I get the following error: Traceback (most recent call last): File "C:\Users\Sawyer\Documents\Git\project\bot.py", line 14, in try: self.db = gae_helpers.get_db() except ConnectionError, e: AttributeError: 'NoneType' object has no attribute 'commit' At the moment I am using a Thread to insert data in the table: class Blog(db.Model): name = db.StringProperty() description = db.StringProperty(default='No description provided') link = db.StringProperty(default='No link provided') class InsertDBThread(Thread): def __init__(self, name): Thread.__init__(self) self.name = name self.db = gae_helpers.get_db() def run(self): try: self.db.create(Blog(name=self.name, description=self.description, link=self.link)) except db.NoSuchObjectError: pass I have been able to determine that the issue is in line 14, which is the method where I try to get a connection to the google app engine. What I am trying to do is to get the commit function and do a transaction, which should be a simple correction of the issue. A: If you look at the python db api implementation, commit is a async function and is only available from the async thread: So just do: class Blog(db.Model): name = db.StringProperty() description = db.StringProperty(default='No description provided') link = db.StringProperty(default='No link provided') class InsertDBThread

Q: Can't start Selenium server on Windows Server 2019 I've been trying to run Selenium on a Windows Server 2019 VM. I started by installing the Wix 3.11 installer on the same VM as an example of why it would work. That didn't work. Then, I downloaded the project files and started through a Visual Studio CTP experience. I got an error message. I waited a few days. Another day or two passed. It was as if I hit "Reboot" and went through a spin loop. Finally, I deleted the .vs folder and tried to start again. I got the error again: The Start-SeleniumServer cmdlet is deprecated. Parameter set to: -ServerFilePath You can still use the service.properties file to configure the server. At line:1 char:1 + Start-SeleniumServer -ServerFilePath C:\appdata\local\temp + ~~~~~ + CategoryInfo : NotSpecified: (:) [Start-SeleniumServer], RuntimeException + FullyQualifiedErrorId : Microsoft.PowerShell.Commands.StartSeleniumServerCommand I have tried re-installing to see if it made any difference. Same. I need some guidance. Is the only route to running a service like this now to uninstall and reinstall the server files? Is there something I'm missing? Where might I begin to trouble shoot? A: I have hit this issue myself, and it seems that those .vs files are corrupted when installed outside of VS. Installing anything over PowerShell still works, so for me this issue is resolved by just using PowerShell directly. That way I don't have to copy over files, and I don't have to worry about dependencies or versions that don't match. You could of course go through a PowerShell installer/uninstaller, but I hope you realize that this way of doing things works every time on every Windows machine :) Q: What are good models for probability density functions and
